

Elocution contest sensitises about dangers of corruption

Staff Reporter

Vasco

With an objective to create awareness in the society especially among youth towards a corruption-free government, the vigilance department of Goa Shipyard Ltd in collaboration with BITS Pilani organised inter-college elocution contest on Friday at BITS Pilani, K K Birla Goa campus on the occasion of Vigilance Awareness Week. Students of BITS Pilani's Goa campus, Carmel College for Women, Don Bosco College of Engineering, Goa Engineering College (GEC), Government College of Arts, Science and Commerce, Khandola, National Institute of Technology (NIT, Goa) and MES College of Arts and Commerce, participated in the contest.

Chief guest for the event Associate Dean (SWD) of BITS Pilani's K K Birla Goa campus Prof. Anshuman Sarkar shared his knowledge and experience towards creating a corruption-free environment in academic and work place. Prof. Sukanta Mondal, chief warden and faculty in department of Biological science and Sebastiao Fernandes HOD (Vigilance) GSL were also present. The programme was compered by Lochan Karekar, DGM (Vigilance) and the vote of thanks proposed by Sebastiao Fernandes HOD (Vigilance) of Goa Shipyard Ltd.