

Goan professor wins Fulbright-Nehru Fellowship

NT KURIOCIETY

Associate professor from the Department of Humanities & Social Sciences at BITS Pilani, K K Birla Goa Campus, Rayson K Alex has won the prestigious Fulbright-Nehru Academic and Professional Excellence Award for the academic year 2022-23.

Awarded by the United States-India Educational Foundation (USIEF), the fellowship is given to the most outstanding academics and professionals in India to research and teach at a host institution in the US. Professor Alex will teach and conduct research at W Washington University for a period of six months.

The fellowship will begin in July 2022. While he teaches a course titled, 'Environmental Justice movements in India' to the graduate students at the Fairhaven Interdisciplinary College at the University, he will conduct his research on environmental humanities pedagogies in India and the US.