

The Department of Humanities and Social Sciences is offering a Minor program in Public Policy

Purpose

The Minor program seeks to engage with the process, politics and outcomes of policy making. The students would gain a clear and contextualised understanding of the policy making process in India, the nature of public policy interventions and their varying impacts.

Design

The Minor is designed with the following two components:

- Fundamentals of public policy and governance (core courses) and
- Introduction to development issues, the nature of policy interventions and their impacts (elective courses).

Benefits

- The Minor would be of immense benefit to students who intend to pursue civil services as a career;
- Students with a Minor in Public Policy will be able to fill positions in policy analysis consultancies and policy think tanks.
